

Best Of Breed

Your complete Exchequer solution - quality software plus so much more!

When you buy an Exchequer accounting and ERP solution, you don't only buy high-quality software. You benefit from a whole range of services designed and proven to ensure your project meets expectations both initially and in the years ahead.

As an Exchequer customer, you are assigned a personal dedicated project manager who will guide you through the planning and implementation process.

Professional Consultants

Exchequer consultants in Ireland have literally decades of experience in implementing Exchequer solutions into all industries. Throughout this time, the business knowledge of accountancy trained, real-world experienced, professional consultants, has continued to evolve and expand, ensuring that customers benefit from leading-edge technology from our multi-award winning business and accounting software, together with unrivalled experience and dedication.

By focusing only on the Exchequer solution you can be confident that the consultants responsible for your sale, project management and implementation, can dedicate 100% of their time to your success, as they have done for the past decade.

Alan Connor, Commercial Director of Exchequer Software Ireland, comments: "I genuinely believe that while it does make our life that much easier to have such a powerful yet easy to use and reliable solution, the responsibility of successful implementation of any solution, does fall to the consultants involved. We have a network of consultants across Ireland that are second to none. The level of service and expertise that we require from our partners and personnel is advanced, and the specialisation on our single solution offering with 100% of our time dedicated to that task, is very unique to Ireland."

Best Performance

Exchequer qualified industry consultants and project managers have a wealth of specific industry knowledge that is priceless. With decades of experience in project managing implementations to companies such as yours, not only can we ensure that our Exchequer modules are optimised to provide the best performance for your unique needs, but we can offer insightful advice and analysis based on similar expertise and best practice recommendations.

As over 95% of our customers have upgraded to Exchequer from other competing accounting software, we can utilise that expertise and understanding to identify the current weaknesses in your systems or procedures, immediately understand your need for change, accurately and succinctly document your key needs, and design a tailored implementation plan designed to offer a guaranteed total cost of ownership and delivery on time and within budget.

This threefold advantage offering is an unrivalled proposition in Ireland:

1. The most award-winning mid-range accounting software of the decade
2. Seasoned and professional local Exchequer experts
3. Experienced industry and sector expert knowledge.
