Enterprise Ireland has recently launched an updated version of its highly successful environmental website, www.envirocentre.ie. The website is designed to improve environmental awareness and performance within Irish industry - with a specific focus on small to medium-sized enterprises. It is a one-stop shop for environmental information and solutions for your business.

There is no doubt that environmental policy has become prioritised by decision makers in government and business in recent times. In the past, poor awareness and the absence of pressure from customers and larger enterprises meant that few efforts were made by smaller companies to address environmental issues. However legislation and an increasingly demanding marketplace have now brought environmental issues centre-stage for Irish industry, particularly SMEs.

The problem most companies now face is locating - and having the time to locate - good quality advice and information about various environmental issues. EnviroCentre is a comprehensive and daily updated website that addresses this challenge.

The website offers detailed, up-to-date information on a vast range of environmental issues in formats that are relevant to industry. Initiatives include:

- Support services available to industry in a range of environmental areas eg. Waste Management and Recycling, Environmental Management Systems (EMS), Eco-Efficiency, Eco-Design, Climate Change and Energy, and REACH
- Extensive information on existing and upcoming environmental legislation
- Financial incentives to encourage improved environmental performance (up to 50% of the cost of environmental projects deemed suitable)
- Downloadable sectoral and cross sectoral Best Practice Guides on improving environmental performance
- Comprehensive information on environmental technology markets and Irish companies involved in the manufacture and export of environmental products and services
- Database section that includes up-to-date information on Environmental Consultants, Ecodesign Resources and Waste Recycling Companies

- Information and presentations from the Enterprise Ireland Industrial Fora
- EnviroCentre News - our bi-monthly e-newsletter.
